- Check your earnings record annually and more often if you think your social security number has been compromised, it's free. Contact the Social Security Administration and ask for form SSA-7004, Request for Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement.

Personal Security and Safety Checklist

Making your home more secure

- Install good locks on doors and windows. Use Them! Don't hide keys in mailboxes and planters, or under doormats. Instead, leave an extra set of keys with a close friend or relative.
- Ask for photo identification from service or delivery people before letting them in. If you are the least bit worried, call the company to verify their identity.
- Be sure your street address number is large, clear of obstruction, and well lighted so police and other emergency personnel can find your home quickly.
- Consider a home alarm system that provides emergency monitoring for burglary, fire, and medical emergencies.

- ☑ Talk to a lawyer about living wills and powers of attorney, to set up a system to ensure that no single person has total control over your finances.
- ☑ Carry any sensitive information such as your drivers license or credit cards in a close fitting pouch or in your front pocket.
- ☑ Don't carry your checkbook in public, simply carry a few checks that you may need during the day.
- ☑ Remove all items from your bag or wallet that contain your Social Security number, including your Social Security card, Medicare card, and military ID card.
- ☑ Never give any part of your social security number, bank account, or credit card information over the phone or internet unless you have verified the identity of the company and they are doing legitimate business with you.
- ☑ Request a FREE copy of your credit report annually through www.annualcreditreport.com or by phone at 877-322-8228.

- ☑ Do not keep your auto title, registration, insurance card, checkbook, receipts or other identifying information in your car. Carry only the essentials in a secure manner and keep them with you, not unattended in your vehicle. Never leave your car unlocked!

Don't Be A Victim!

Many older Pennsylvanians live in constant fear of crime. Their lives are spent behind locked doors and windows, rather than in the neighborhoods they helped to build. Often, their fears are not unfounded.

Research indicates that older people are more likely to be the victims of certain crimes: fraud, strong-arm robbery, purse snatching, mailbox theft, vandalism, and harassing phone calls.

All older Pennsylvanians need to protect themselves from these types of crime. Please help us to help you by following the precautions addressed in this booklet.

Telemarketing Fraud

Warning signs you may be targeted

- You live alone and enjoy talking to anyone calling.
- You believe it's rude to interrupt a caller or hang up.
- You must pay money up front for taxes or fees to participate.
- You must make an immediate decision, before the call ends, or the offer will be rescinded.
- You are called more and more frequently by a variety of telephone solicitors.

How to Protect Yourself

- Never talk to strangers on the telephone; they are not calling to chat with you. They are invading your privacy just as if they walked into your home uninvited.
- Get an answering machine, voice mail or caller ID system to screen calls to prevent interacting with these solicitors.
- Never, under any circumstances, give any portion of your credit card, bank account, or social security numbers to a caller.
- Add your phone number to the Do Not Call lists, National and State. The contact information to do this is listed below.

Pennsylvania Do Not Call List

National Do Not Call List

Sexual Abuse

- Sexually transmitted diseases
- Trauma/injuries to genital area
- If you suspect abuse you should report it as soon as possible. You are not alone when seeking help.

Identity Theft/Fraud Prevention

Checklist

- Use a "fanny pack" or close fitting pouch, instead of a purse or wallet any time you're out in public.
- Never carry your social security card with you, and remove your social security number from your drivers license and checks.
- Send all outgoing mail through your post office rather than placing it in your mailbox.
- Use a crosscut shredder on all mail and documents containing personal information.
- Never talk to strangers on the phone or at your door.
- Sign up for the Pennsylvania and National Do Not Call Lists.
- Ask the companies that you do business with such as your phone company, banks, and credit card companies to put you on their do not call list and request that your information not be shared or sold.
- Only donate to legitimate charities of your choice not solicitors collecting donations over the telephone or door to door.
- Get at least three written bids before contracting any home improvement and check out a business through the Better Business Bureau and your local consumer protection office.

- Pennsylvania's Do Not Call list is maintained and managed by the Direct Marketing Association. Enforcement is through the Pennsylvania Attorney General's office. Please note that phone calls from charities, political groups, and surveys are exempt from the Do Not Call list.

Mail and Internet Fraud

Warning signs you may be at risk

- You play sweepstakes daily because you think you need extra money, hoping you'll win a big prize some day.
- You believe that because your mail is delivered by the US Postal Service it must be legitimate.
- You open and read all of your mail because many pieces look official or like a good charity to donate to.
- You're getting the same offers through e-mail that you've been receiving by mail.

Preventative Steps

- Even though you may believe them to be legitimate and it may be fun and give you something to do, stop participating in sweepstakes.
- If you truly won something, you NEVER would have to pay any fees, taxes or cost of any kind to collect your winnings, that's the law!
- Don't be tempted to take that chance. If you receive any mail or e-mail that promotes sweepstakes, lotteries, charities, credit repair or work at home offers, throw them away or delete the e-mail without opening them.
- By entering a sweepstakes you trigger more mail. Your address is sold to numerous solicitors seeing you as an easy target.

- Contact the Direct Marketing Association to be removed from some lists; their contact information is listed below.

Unwanted Mail

Direct Marketing Association
PO Box 643
Carmel, NY 10512
www.dmaconsumers.org

This organization will provide direct marketers with the names and addresses of consumers who do not want to receive unsolicited mailings. To remove your address send a written letter that includes your name, address, city, state, zip code, and your signature. This is a free service, with a small fee if filed online.

Contractor Fraud

Warning Signs

- A home repair contractor solicits you at your door, insisting you have a problem which must be repaired right away.
- A contractor offers a bargain price or claims to have materials left over from another job in the neighborhood.
- A contractor requires a substantial payment in advance or charges significantly more after the work is completed.
- An inspector claiming to work for the city shows up at your door claiming that they must come into your home to inspect the furnace, water heater, or back yard.

Identity Theft

Warning Signs

- Your purse or wallet is stolen.
- Your bank account is overdrawn or there is unusual activity on your credit card.
- Mail you are expecting doesn't arrive, especially related to financial matters; bills you paid are still showing up as due on your bill.
- You apply for a credit card or loan and are denied, possibly due to your poor credit due to an identity thief ruining your credit.

How to safeguard yourself against identity theft

- Carry a close fitting pouch or a wallet in your front pocket instead of a purse that can easily be stolen or pick pocketed.
- Make a copy front and back of all items you are carrying in your purse or wallet so if it is stolen you will know what is lost and who to call to cancel cards, etc.
- Don't carry more than you need in public. Leave extra credit cards at home and don't carry your social security card or have the number on your drivers' license.
- When discarding items make sure you shred or tear up into small pieces any documents containing social security, bank and credit card numbers.
- Mail your bills directly through the post office. Also ask that new boxes of checks be held at your bank or credit union rather than having them mailed to you. If you must mail items from your mailbox don't put mail in the box with the flag up.

Caregiver Fraud

Warning Signs you may be a victim

- There's unusual activity in bank and credit card accounts.
- A caregiver tries to isolate the victim who ends up relying solely on the caregiver.
- A caregiver has total control over the finances and has everything mailed directly to them.
- The person is fearful or overly trusting of the caregiver.

Preventative Steps

- If your Power of Attorney or anyone else suggests you make a change in your assets, investments, or insurance always get a second and third opinion on whether this is a good choice in your best interests. Only a potential crook would not want you to consult with someone else about the changes.
- No matter how much you trust someone never sign any papers that you have not read or do not understand.
- Even if you have someone who manages your finances always insist on receiving and reviewing copies of all bank and financial statements.

Preventative Steps

- Beware of door to door contractors who try to get an immediate decision.
- Never do business with someone who comes to your door claiming they have materials left over or can give you a bargain
- Get at least three written bids. Don't always choose the lowest bidder; remember to compare apples to apples.
- As of July 1, 2009, Pennsylvania enacted a new law called the Home Improvement Contractor Act (HIC). All contractors are required to register their business with the PA Attorney General's office. The law requires a start date, finish date, no more than one-third down as a deposit, and a three-day right to cancel. You can see if a contractor is registered by calling 1-888-520-6680 or going online to www.attorneygeneral.gov. There you can also read all the requirements that a contractor must follow and the contract requirements.
- Don't let any strangers into your home, no matter who they claim to be. City inspectors do not go door to door.

Mortgage Scams

Mortgage brokers must be registered with the State. You can check on a broker by calling 800-722-2657, or by going to www.banking.state.pa.us—a very useful financial site! Make sure you use a HUD certified counselor. To find one, go online to www.HUD.gov.

Warning signs you may be targeted

- You've fallen behind in your mortgage payments or you are already in foreclosure.

- You're getting phone calls and visits from companies offering to help you pay off your debts.
- You're receiving numerous fliers in the mail or on your door offering low interest cash loans.
- A friend, advisor or relative asks you to sign some forms and you do without reading them.

Preventative Steps

- Beware of companies who contact you offering foreclosure relief service.
- Don't sign any forms or papers without reading and completely understanding everything on them. If you are not sure about it contact a lawyer or legal aid whose number is located in the helpful contacts section at the end of this booklet.
- First consult an attorney, a knowledgeable family member, or someone who you can trust completely. Once you sign the legal documents it can be difficult if not impossible to reverse the action. Be wary of anyone who asks you to sign over the deed to your property.

Predatory Lending

Predatory lending is any of a number of fraudulent, deceptive, discriminatory, or unfavorable lending practices. Many of these practices are illegal, while others are legal but not in the best interest of the borrowers.

How to Spot a Predatory Lender

- None of your questions are answered or they don't make sense.
- They pressure you to sign things or rush you through the paperwork.
- They don't explain to you or tell you all of the costs of getting a loan.

Preventative steps

- Don't fill in the blanks for the scammer by offering up the name of a relative.
- Ask specific questions that only your family member would be able to answer.
- Come up with a code word for the entire family to use over the phone in an emergency.
- Always verify for yourself. Contact a family member to check on the specific relative.

Charity Scams

- Don't be fooled by "sound-alike" names that criminals use to trick consumers such as calling themselves the Red Cross instead of the American Red Cross.
- Before you donate, check to see if the charity is legitimate with the American Institute of Philanthropy www.charitywatch.org or call 773-529-2300.
- Even if the telemarketers are acting on behalf of legitimate charities, often only a small percentage goes to the cause. Ask them what percentage will actually go to the charity.
- Non-profit and charitable organizations are required to file Internal Revenue Service Form 990 to show how the organization is spending its money. To access the filings go to the GuideStar web site at www.guidestar.org.
- Bureau of Charitable Organizations www.dos.pa.gov/charities
800-732-0999

- Beware of individuals claiming to represent companies, consumer organizations, or government agencies that offer to recover lost money from fraudulent telemarketers for a fee.

If you're suspicious, check it out with the police, the Bucks County Office of Consumer Protection (1-800-942-2669), or the State Attorney General's Office of Consumer Protection (1-800-441-2555).

International Lottery Scams

Many people receive e-mails, calls and letters, all of which are bogus claiming that you've won a large sum of money from overseas. Typically, you are told that you must pay for processing, taxes or delivery, or provide bank account information in order to "verify" your identity. The first thing you should remember is if you didn't ENTER a lottery, you can't WIN a lottery. You will never receive a penny if you respond to these calls or e-mails, and any money you send away will be lost to you forever. The odds of winning a lottery or a sweepstakes, even legitimate ones, are very low.

Grandparent Scams

This scam starts out with a frantic phone call from someone claiming to be one of your grandchildren. The con artist typically baits their intended victim with a vague greeting, such as "This is your favorite grandchild/niece/godchild," or "Do you know who this is?" The typical claim by the family member is that he or she has gotten into a car accident or was arrested for DUI or drug charges and is being detained in prison. They request bail money or money to pay for the damages to be sent so they can be released. The scammers also request that the intended victim not contact parents or other family members. This scam has been made easier with the advent of social media networks such as Twitter and Facebook, which make legitimate information such as family names and locations easily accessible.

- Things change at the closing, you're not getting the loan you were promised, this is a red flag to walk away!
- They want you to borrow more money than you need.
- They make you feel like you don't have other choices, as if other lenders won't give you a loan.
- They give you a quick yes, but it may not be the best loan for you.
- The loan is an adjustable rate but you were told it is a fixed rate.
- There are prepayment penalties on the loan.
- You have a feeling that something just isn't right. Listen to your instincts.

Financial Planning and Investment Fraud

Warning signs

- High pressure sales tactics with an insistence on an immediate decision.
- Unwillingness to have you get a second opinion or consult someone else.
- A guaranteed investment or one claiming no risk.
- Unwillingness to provide written information or verifiable references.
- Trying to get you to invest on the basis of trust or faith.

Preventative Steps

- Don't become dependent on one financial advisor or consultant, have several.
- Thoroughly check out any offer, don't let anyone rush you into making a decision.
- Review all of your statements to check for any unauthorized or excessive trading or withdrawals.
- If you have trouble receiving your funds, demand a return on your investment and ask to see all transactions.

- Check out all licenses by calling SEC, NES, NASD to check on brokers, etc. Their contact information is listed in the table below.
- If they have a license ask to see it and call the agency responsible for issuing to find out if it is still valid and if there have been any complaints.

NASD offers a third-party dispute resolution forum, including both arbitration and mediation solutions, for the resolution of monetary and business disputes between investors and securities firms.

- Don't fall for anything that sounds too good to be true; a free vacation, sweepstakes prizes, cures for cancer and arthritis, a low-risk, high-yield investment scheme.
- Never give your credit card, phone card, Social Security number, or bank account number to anyone over the phone. It's illegal for telemarketers to ask for these numbers to verify a prize or gift.
- Don't let anyone rush you into signing anything; an insurance policy, a sales agreement, or a contract. Read it carefully and have someone you trust check it over.
